For my review I will be doing it on a game called Minecraft, in this game you get to build your own world. This game was created in 2009 and is still one of the most popular games on the app store, and with this game you can build whatever you want but you have to get creative on how you build it because all of the materials are blocks. The more you play the game more you unlock achievements, the more achievements you unlock the more advanced you get in the game. Minecraft gives you a chance to build your own city and let your creative side out. I really like this game because you can play with friends and build a world together.
