Persuasive Writing Strategies for Success

- Use examples to prove your point
- /Your own personal expression/enthusiasm about your topic
- /Use anecdotes/stories to support your ideas.
- /Using a comparison. Example: Taking summer break away from students is like taking coffee away from adults. Adults are stuck on Facebook like students are stuck on Snapchat and TikTok.
- /Use of Similes and metaphors to compare.
Example: I feel the seriousness of the environment is tossed out the window like piece of old gum.
- /Using quotes of statistics and facts that back up what you are saying.
- /Using reasons and possible consequences(warnings) to support your idea.
- /Quotations from those with expertise or experience that help support your idea.
- Ask an important question about your issue.

The problem that 8.9% of the world's poor countries have only received one dose of the COVID vaccine , while anyone who wants one here can get both doses plus a booster here?

RANT EXAMPLE BY MR. B

Do the right thing! That is what screams in my head. I look at the world and see only 60% has 1 dose or more of the COVID vaccine, while a mere 8.9% of the world's most poor countries have the vaccine. This a huge peril. First, in a selfish way the virus is only mutating to variants among the unvaccinated populations, so we need to get the world fully vaccinated. More importantly though, the rich governments here in North America need to pay up and do the right thing to vaccinate those in need. Billionaires compete to fly to space. I think I know where their extra cash could go. Also, we have military armies who are trained in making big operations happen. Let's do it. Finally, we can save lives and allow the entire planet to live more free, normal and happy.
